

Monday Rules

Pips2Profit
Cameron Benson

Understand the days Characteristics

- Monday is the first day of the week.
- Opening Range for the week.
- Restarts the weekly cycle, but last weeks high/low are IMPORTANT!
- Day 1 runner is a strong unidirectional move on a MONDAY that is reaching for previous weeks high or low DO NOT COUNTERTREND.

Questions to ask yourself on a Monday

1. How many weeks of rise or fall have there been?
2. Where are the previous weeks high and low/has one of those levels been hit prior to my session?
3. Current market structure...has there been a BOS when is causing a dump and pump or pump and dump?
4. What has the market done in relation to the ASIAN RANGE?!
 - a. Which variant of the Asian range am I looking at?
 - i. Trending
 - ii. Stop Hunt High Drop
 - iii. Stop Hunt Low Rise

- Previous week high/low not been hit. Where is the market reaching?
- Stop Hunt Low Rise Template
- Only gone 2 levels out of Asian Range coming into second hour.
- LHF Trend Continuation Opportunity.

Pips2Profit published on TradingView.com, Mar 20, 2023 11:05 UTC-4

Euro / U.S. Dollar, 1, FOREX.com
FXN - Week and Day Separator

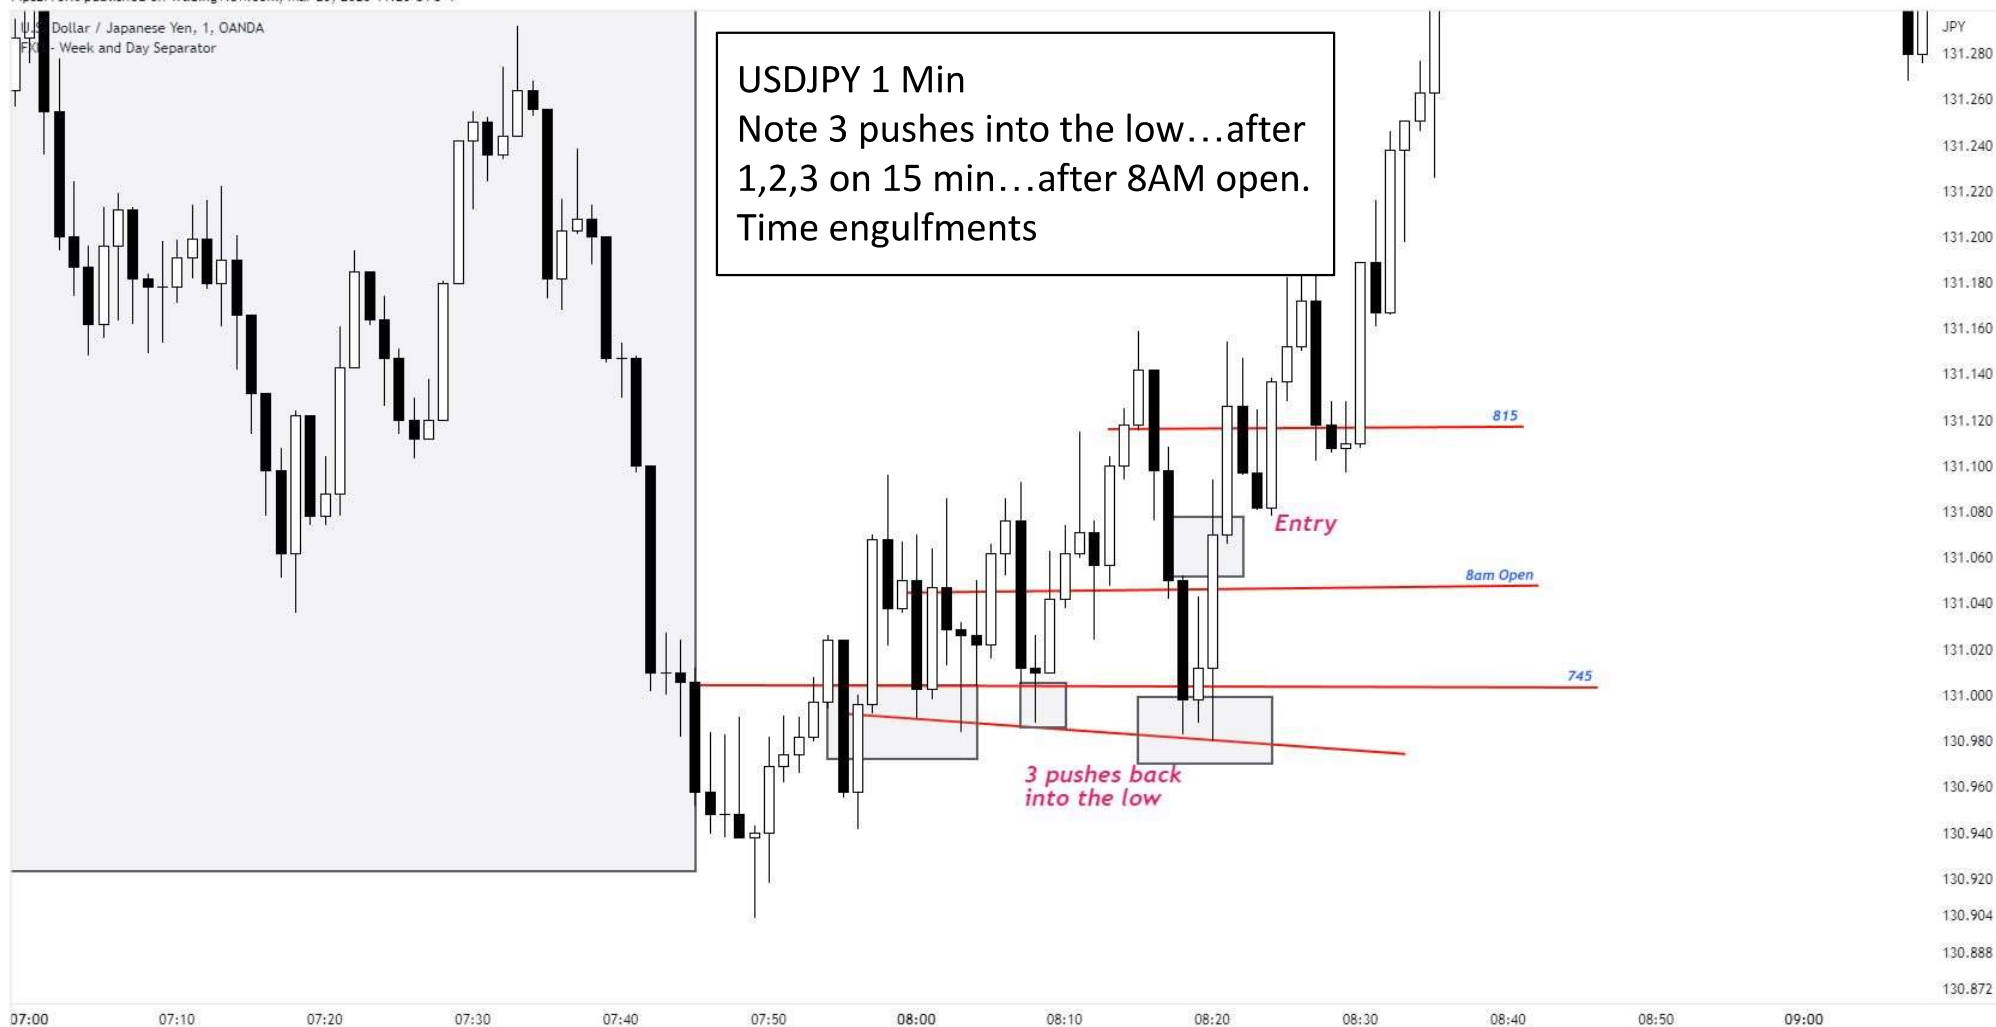

U.S. Dollar / Japanese Yen, 15, OANDA
FXN - Week and Day Separator

USD Dollar / Japanese Yen, 1, OANDA
F15 - Week and Day Separator

USDJPY 1 Min

Note 3 pushes into the low...after
1,2,3 on 15 min...after 8AM open.
Time engulfmments

Previous Weeks High/Low Has Been Hit

How Many Weeks Of Rise/Fall?

Asian Range Template?

Break of Structure (could have been turning last week) in intended direction of trade (Pump and dump/dump and pump)

Day 3 Day Cycle turing to day 1?

Thought Process

Previous Weeks High/Low Not Hit

Current Market Direction on 15 min time frame?

Market Reaching for a level?

Asian Range Template?